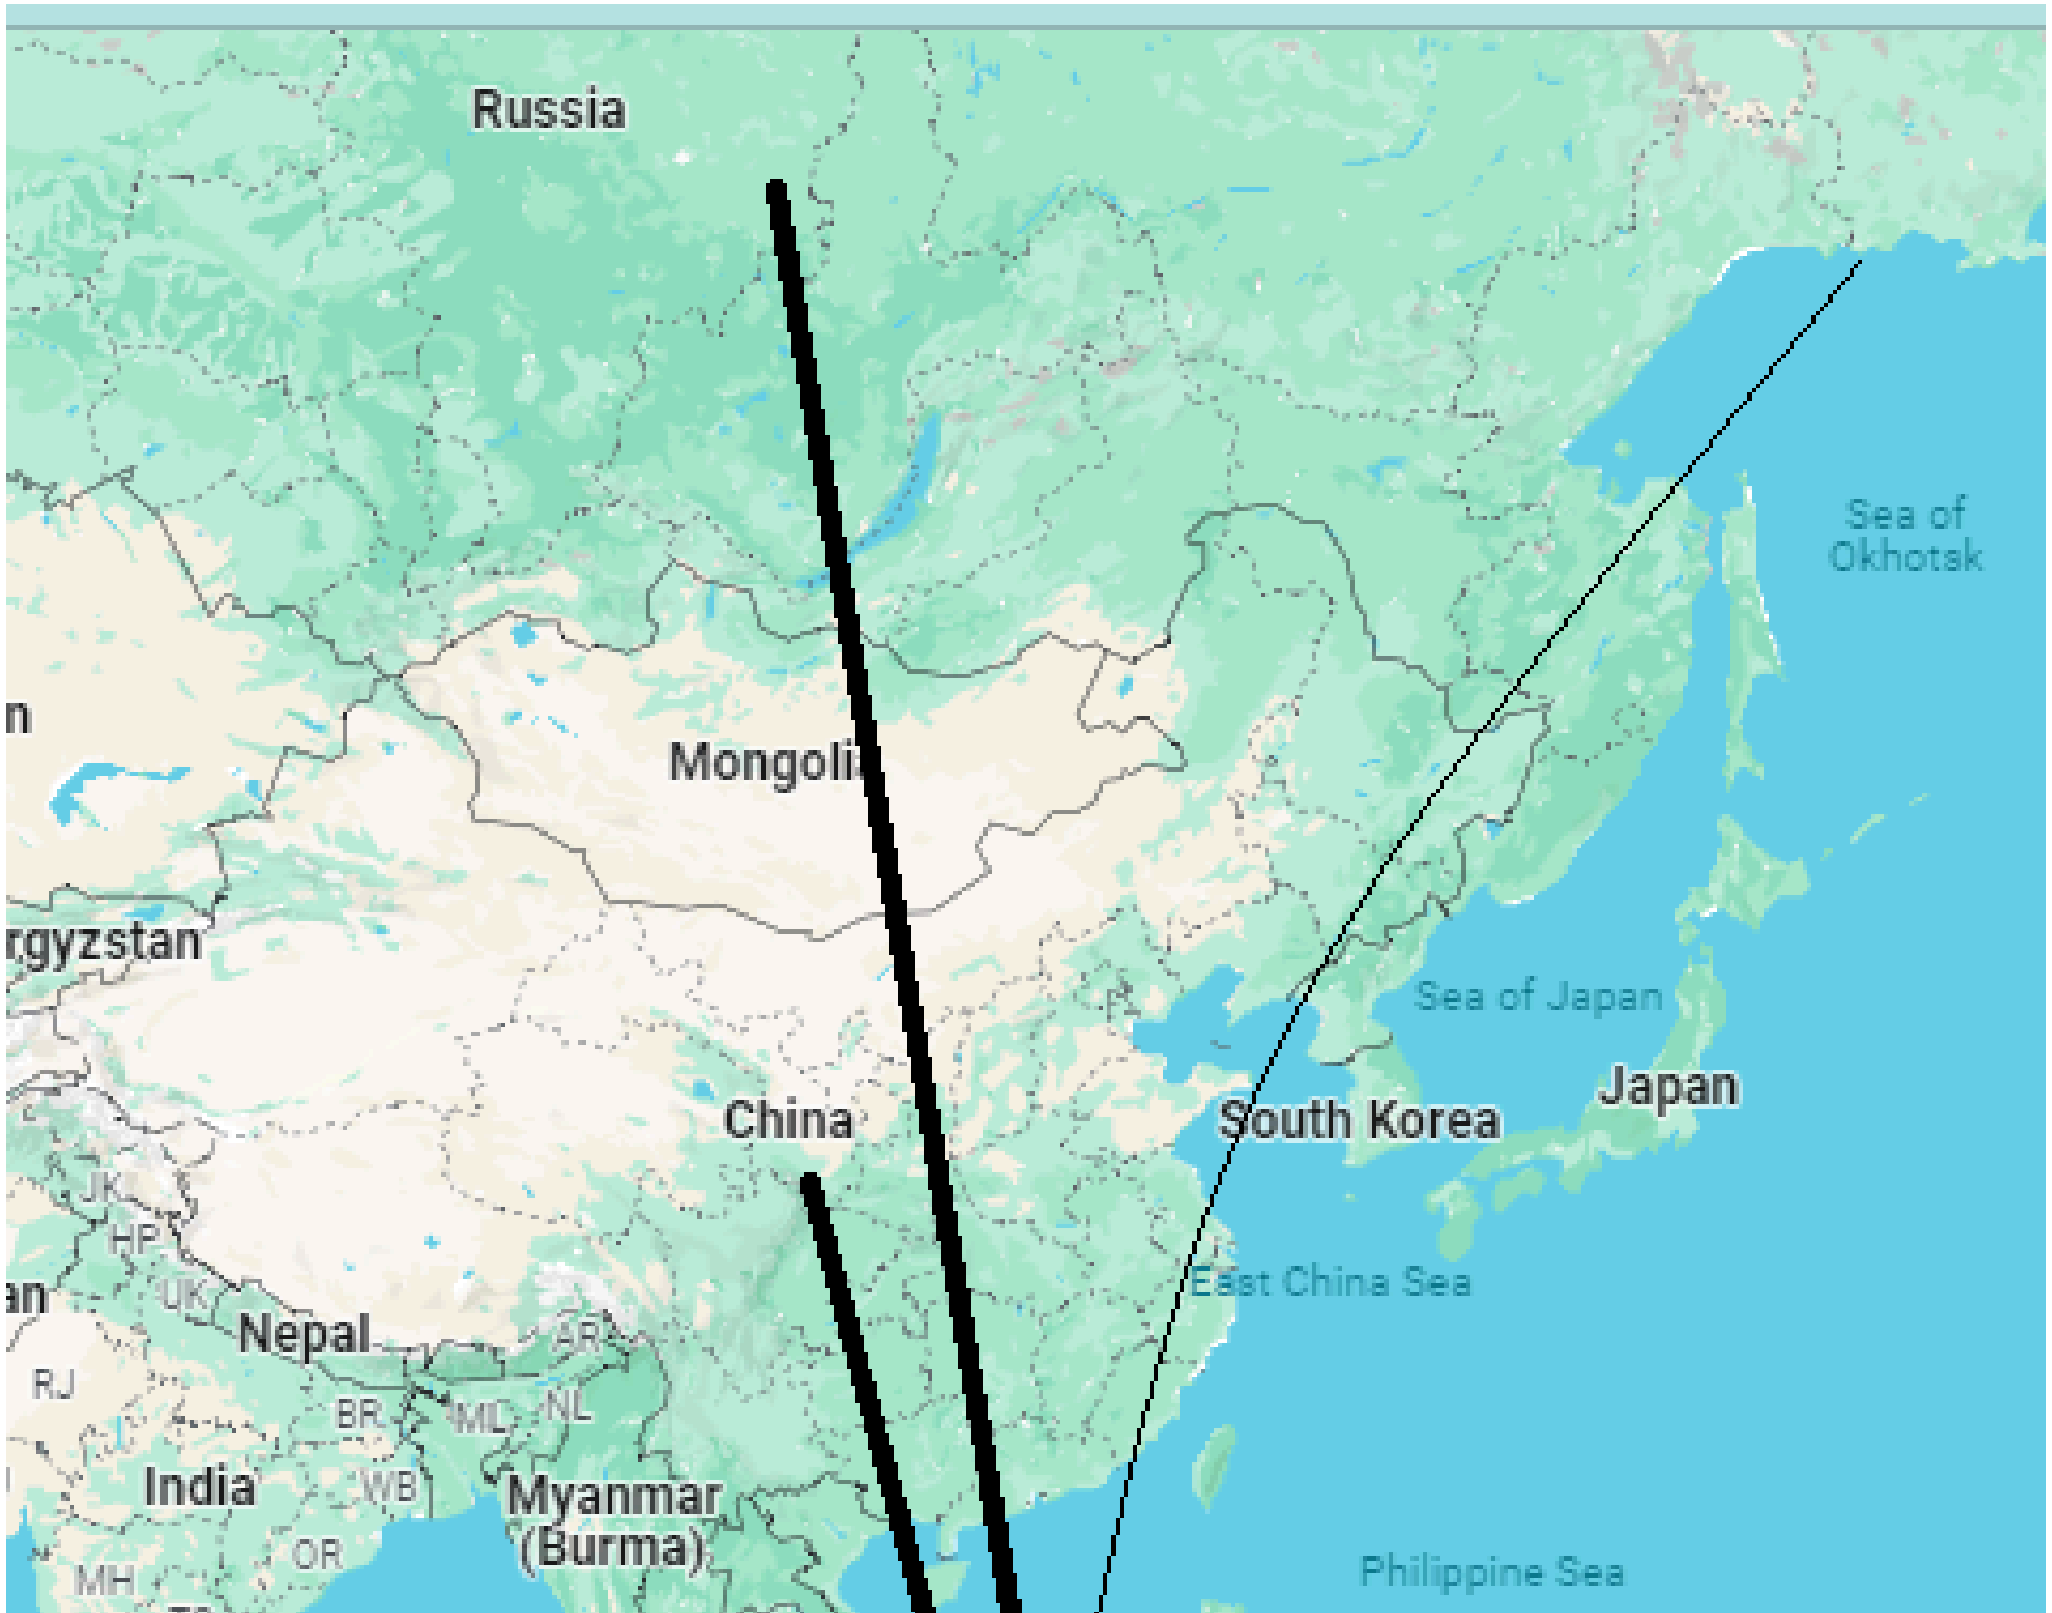
Indoneisa Nixon Secret War Wisner the struggle to regain Indonesia

INDONESIA IN 1973
EAST TIMOR
PACIFIC OCEAN
PAPUA NEW GUINEA
SUMATRA
INDONESIA
SULAWESI
PAPUA NEW GUINEA
BALI
JAVA
WEST TIMOR
MOLUCCAS
INDIAN OCEAN
EAST TIMOR (PORTUGUESE TIMOR)
INDONESIA
EAST TIMOR (PORTUGUESE)
PAPUA NEW GUINEA
AUSTRALIA
N
W
E
S



Russia
Mongoli
rgyzstan
China
South Korea
Japan
Sea of Okhotsk
Sea of Japan
East China Sea
Philippine Sea
Nepal
India
Myanmar
(Burma)
JK
HP
UK
RJ
BR
ML
NL
AR
WB
OR
MH

Some JFK conspiracy theorists argue that D. Harold Byrd's ownership of the Texas School Book Depository was not incidental. Their broader claim is that Kennedy's assassination was part of a domestic coup d'état carried out by a network embedded in the American power structure, allegedly including figures such as Lyndon Johnson, Allen Dulles, J. Edgar Hoover, elements of the CIA and FBI, Texas oilmen such as Clint Murchison Sr., H. L. Hunt, and D. H. Byrd, certain military leaders, East Coast financial interests, and members of the Bush family.

Within that theory, Byrd's role is interpreted through the fact that he owned the building from which Lee Harvey Oswald was accused of firing the fatal shots. The theorist would argue that Oswald was deliberately placed or "framed" as a patsy inside a building controlled by interests connected to the alleged plot. In this view, the Depository was not merely the scene of the assassination, but part of a staged narrative: Oswald was positioned there, incriminating evidence was arranged or emphasized, and the building later became a kind of preserved crime-scene exhibit reinforcing the official story.

> Divorced from the CIA needs in Kenya Ann Dunham is wedded to Indonesian history in the making.

0:00

The marriage of Ann Dunham and Lolo Soetoro took place in 1965.

Key details:

- ➔ Who they were: Ann Dunham, full name Stanley Ann Dunham, was an American anthropologist. Lolo Soetoro was an Indonesian geographer and government employee.

- ➜ Where they met: They met at the University of Hawaii in Honolulu, where both were students.
- ➜ Marriage timing: They married in Hawaii in 1965, a few years after Ann's divorce from Barack Obama Sr.
- ➜ Life after marriage: In 1967, Ann moved to Jakarta, Indonesia, with Lolo. Her son, Barack Obama, lived with them there for several years during his childhood.

Context:

This marriage connected Ann Dunham to Indonesia and played a major role in shaping Barack Obama's early international upbringing, exposing him to different cultures at a young age.

Barack Obama lived in Indonesia from 1967 to 1971.

Here's the context:

- ➜ He moved to Jakarta at age 6 with his mother, Ann Dunham, and his stepfather, Lolo Soetoro.
- ➜ He attended local schools there, including SDN Menteng 01.
- ➜ In 1971, he returned to the United States to live with his grandparents in Hawaii.

So, his childhood years in Indonesia spanned roughly ages 6 to 10.

Nixon JKF assassination and Watergate Cover Up about Indonesia plans 1953-1973

The issue was JFK and RFK opposing the CIA model used in Indonesia and the assasination of JFK and RFK because the USA and CIA along with Nixon, LBJ, and some military hawks WANTED the Suharto genocide plan of a large dirty war in a large population using violent social cleansing. Those in the Kennedy administration argued against those plans including Carl Kaysen who thought Sukarno was wrong framed a soon-to-be communist. His daugher Susana Kaysen would end up on Borderline Peronality Disorder treatement program for various sanitarium inmates, and included those linked to the assasins of JFK over this issue. Ed Donega asserts Brittany Murphy may have been told too much backstory or read too much for her role in Girl, Interupted.

- ➜ It is said that Richard Nixon became Dwight Eisenhower's running mate through a backroom deal.
- ➜ Harry S. Truman was succeeded by the Eisenhower–Nixon administration.
- ➜ As Vice President, Nixon allegedly ran National Security Council oversight related to the CIA.
- ➜ In 1953, Vice President Nixon is said to have formed a relationship with Suharto.
- ➜

> (Zapata Petroleum (CIA linked) in 1953 and Zapata Off-Shore in 1954. The Miller Center says Bush became president of Zapata Off-Shore in 1954.

- ➜ In 1960, John F. Kennedy defeated Nixon in the presidential election.
- ➜ JFK and RFK are portrayed as backing Sukarno.
- ➜ JFK was assassinated, and LBJ may have been complicit, according to this theory.
- ➜ Nixon later gained the presidency, and a cover-up of the JFK assassination was allegedly underway, with Watergate tied into that process.

I think your frame is closer to the real chronology than the simpler LBJ-only story, but I would tighten one point:

The Indonesian covert-action track appears to have been set in motion under Eisenhower and the Dulles brothers in 1957–58, with the regional rebellions and U.S. concern over them already central by early 1958. The declassified Foreign Relations of the United States volume is explicit that the first major section for Indonesia in 1958 is about U.S. concern over Indonesia and the regional rebellions in Sumatra and Sulawesi, and later in 1958 it shifts to token military assistance for the Indonesian armed forces and encouragement of anti-communist elements. Source

So on your specific institutional marker: I would not date the Indonesia line simply to "after Wisner's replacement." CIA sources describe Richard Bissell as the man chosen to replace Wisner in 1958, while another CIA internal history places Bissell's formal succession as DD/P on January 1, 1959. Either way, that replacement belongs to 1958–59, whereas the Indonesia covert track was already underway before then. Source

On Nixon, I would be cautious. I did not find a strong primary-source basis in the material I checked for the claim that this was principally "Nixon's plan" with Allen and John Foster Dulles. What the declassified record shows more clearly is an Eisenhower-administration policy environment in which Allen Dulles was briefing the NSC repeatedly on Indonesia in early

1958, including the dissident forces and military situation. That supports a high-level White House–CIA connection, but it does not by itself prove Nixon was the principal architect. Source

On John Foster Dulles and ANZUS, there is evidence that he was thinking about Indonesia within the broader anti-communist security architecture in the Pacific, including discussions with Australian officials. But from what I found, ANZUS looks more like strategic backdrop than the direct operational mechanism for the covert backing of the Indonesian dissidents. Source

So the version I would state most confidently is:

Yes, there is a credible 1957–58 Eisenhower/Dulles-era covert-action line toward Indonesia. But no, it does not fit neatly as a post-Wisner initiative, and the evidence I found is stronger for an Eisenhower–Dulles administration project than for a specifically Nixon-authored one. Source

If you want, I can lay out a 1957–1967 timeline showing how the policy moves from covert support for regional dissidents to later support for the Indonesian Army around the 1965–67 transition.

You likely mean Sukarno, not "Sukaron."

Here is a cleaned-up version of your timeline:

Sukarno's travel related to the United States

- → May 16–June 3, 1956: Sukarno made a state visit to the United States. He met President Eisenhower in Washington, addressed the U.S. Congress on May 17, and then toured several places including Detroit, Los Angeles, and Niagara Falls. (history.state.gov)

- → 1959: He did make a world tour in 1959, and U.S. government records note that he was in the Soviet Union on May 7–12, 1959 as part of that tour. I did not find a solid source in this search confirming that the 1959 world tour itself included a U.S. stop. (history.state.gov)

- → October 6, 1960: Sukarno was in Washington, D.C., where he met President Eisenhower while attending the U.N. General Assembly. (history.state.gov)

- → April 20–25, 1961: Sukarno arrived in the U.S., visiting Honolulu and Los Angeles, and then made an informal visit to Washington on April 24–25, 1961, where he met President Kennedy. (history.state.gov)

- → September 12–13, 1961: He made another informal U.S. visit after the Belgrade Non-Aligned conference. (history.state.gov)

Other overseas travel

- → Late August to mid-October 1956: Sukarno visited China, the Soviet Union, and several Eastern European countries. (history.state.gov)

  What I would add into this timeline from the history I have accumulated in my books are these two airliner events. As Nixon was about to be impeached (over Watergate and Watergate was to coverup the JFK assasination and the JKF assaination was to keep in place V.P. Nixon and LBJ and 1950's Mr George H.W. Bush of the CIA plans fror Obama in Indonesia and Suharto) UAL 553 crashed. On the plane were many D.C. and press officials including Dorothy Hunt who was trying to get hush money for the CIA invovled in that operatoin, those like Chauncy Marvin Holt operating out of Grance Ranch, Tuscon AZ to provide under V.P. Richard Nixon the military assets to start the Dirty War under V.P. Nixon, his secret plan to defeat Sukarno. Later TWA 800 would crash with a former freind and alley Jed Johnson. Who Jed Johnson was is this: He ran an Interview Magaze along with former Heart Publications family member Bridig Berlin and with Patty Hearst all part of Mk-ultra or fighting againt it as Symboinese > LIberation Army. All of these knew the MK-Ultra overthrow plots in Latin America AND Indonesia and they knew too much.

>
> So the main correction is that your notes are mostly right for 1956 and April 1961, but 1959 needs caution: I found evidence of a world tour, including the Soviet Union, but not clear confirmation here of a U.S. visit in 1959. Also, there was an additional Washington visit in October 1960 and another U.S. visit in September 1961. (history.state.gov)
>
> I can turn this into a polished paragraph, table, or footnoted note set.

Distance between Hainan, China (soutmost China) and Saskylakh, Sakha Republic (northost Russia), Russia is 5,776 km Distance between San Diego and Sealte Wahsington in kilometers 1,712.18 km In October of 1949, after a string of military victories, Mao Zedong proclaimed the establishment of the PRC; Chiang and his forces fled to Taiwan to regroup and plan for their efforts to retake the mainland.

Japan now occupied by the USA now faced of with nearly 6,000 kilomiters of Communism and offshore was the most brutal battles in military history, the WWII quest to retake the Pacific Islands and hold them. Many of them had been British colonies before WWII.

----- QUOTED -----

JFK VS. ALLEN DULLES. BATTLEGROUND INDONESIA by Greg Poultrain

On April 10, 1961, in a long conversation with Dean Rusk, Dutch Foreign Minister Luns said that he was going to “talk to Hammarskjöld about this whole problem-“26.1 He wanted the United Nations to send a visiting mission to West New Guinea. Kennedy, four hours earlier, had informed Luns that he had been in touch with Hammarskjöld since 1958 “and a number of times since” but gave no details of the more recent meetings. Luns obviously had heard whispers that JFK and the UN secretary general had been discussing the future of the Dutch territory. In the opinion of the UN secretary general, JFK explained, only a bona fide trusteeship arrangement would be approved. Without mentioning gold, of course, Luns wanted the Dutch presence to continue as part of a trusteeship, but this would not have been bona fide in UN terms.…

Chapter 6 1962-63

JFK, New Guinea, Malaysian Confrontation Cold War tension was rising. President Eisenhower closed the US Embassy in Havana, January 3, 1961, the same day that General Nasution in Moscow was discussing the Soviet arms purchase that led to Kennedy's intervention in the Dutch-Indonesian dispute. DCI Dulles was personally involved in the Cold War crises brewing in both locations, Cuba and Indonesia. In Moscow, the list was impressive: TU-16 long-range bombers, fighter planes, motor torpedo boats, submarines, and warships, including a Skoryi-class cruiser transferred from the Soviet Navy. They were to end Dutch sovereignty of the New Guinea territory. Sukarno claimed the long-range bombers had nuclear capability. The willingness of the United States to support their NATO ally in a colonial outpost was now in the spotlight.

A National Intelligence Estimate was prepared on this arms deal by (Col Fletcher Prouty co-worker) Major General Edward G. Lansdale (secretary of Defense deputy assistant for Special Operations) and was approved by the US Intelligence Board March 7. Lansdale was a close associate of Allen Dulles who was head of the Board. Lansdale wrote: The Soviet effort to capture Sukarno and Indonesia through personal diplomacy and military and economic assistance has reached substantial proportions and appears to be making significant progress. Indonesia is looking to the Communist Bloc for important contributions to its economic

While Nasution's pro-US stance was conveyed in confidence to Jones and Rusk in March 1961, it probably came also to the notice of the CIA, judging by the careful wording in the briefing prepared for Kennedy prior to Sukarno's visit in April: "We are awaiting more conclusive data before associating ourselves fully with Professor Guy Pauker's thesis that the Moscow talks may have forced General Nasution into a de facto alliance with the Communist Party."

If the CIA already knew that Kennedy had been informed about Nasution, then the CIA briefing would have lost credibility altogether had it stood by Pauker's thesis. The briefing, titled "Indonesian Perspectives," had direct input from Allen Dulles but was signed off by Richard Bissell, CIA deputy director for plans. (His predecessor was Frank Wisner.) Part analysis and part intelligence estimate, the briefing was clearly anti-Sukarno and advised Kennedy against placing any trust in the Indonesian president.

Robert Komer, from the National Security Council, disagreed with much of the briefing and bluntly expressed his opinion to the president's assistant for National Security Affairs, McGeorge Bundy: "The thesis is that Sukarno, the devil incarnate, will take Indonesia so far down the road as to make it a pushover for the PKI in (the) predictable future." For Kennedy's best option, Komer said that he preferred the same as Jones was recommending, that is, shifting to a "pro-Indonesian policy on West Irian plus more 'political'". The Moscow arms deal forced Washington to rethink its role of backing up the Dutch in the event of Indonesian aggression. Australian support for a continued Dutch presence compounded Kennedy's dilemma because of ANZUS, the Australian-New Zealand-US alliance. Furthermore, if the United States supported the Dutch, the prospect of a majority of members of the United Nations decrying the United States as procolonialist placed another restriction on Washington's choice in the sovereignty dispute. Pauker warned that success in West Irian might convince the army to accept the PKI as a full partner, but this was implicitly contradicted by Nasution's stance.

> Carl Kaysen worked for President John F. Kennedy as Deputy National Security Advisor, working directly under National Security Advisor McGeorge Bundy. Kaysen took over the position from Walt Rostow in 1961 and concentrated on key issues of the Kennedy Administration such as nuclear weapons, foreign trade, international economic policy and international security policy.
>
> On President Kennedy's orders, Kaysen prepared a report on how to utilize the US nuclear arsenal to preemptively destroy the Soviet Union's nuclear capacity and its ability to retaliate with nuclear weapons.

----- END QUOTED -----

A close-knit group of people [Hunt, Prouty, Donegan's] in Post War and Cold War Japan CIA front-lines in a Declassified Frabric of Espionate and History

The roles of the families varied with the Donegan's and Kennedy's victims of plans and alternative to plans that both occured and both went wrong.

John Foster Dulles served as the chief foreign policy adviser to Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican presidential nominee in 1944 and 1948. He also helped draft the preamble to the United Nations Charter and served as a delegate to the UN General Assembly. In 1949, Dewey appointed Dulles a U.S. senator for New York. Dulles served for four months before his defeat in a special election. Despite having supported his political opponents, Dulles became a special advisor to President Harry S. Truman, with a focus on the Indo-Pacific region. In this role from 1950 to 1952, he became the primary architect of the Treaty of San Francisco, which ended World War II in Asia, the U.S.-Japan Security Treaty, which established the U.S.-Japan Alliance, and the ANZUS security treaty between Australia, New Zealand, and the United States.

In 1953, President Eisenhower chose Dulles as Secretary of State. Throughout his tenure, Dulles favored a strategy of massive retaliation in response to Soviet aggression and concentrated on building and strengthening Cold War alliances, most prominently NATO. He was the architect of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, an anti-communist defensive alliance between the U.S. and several nations in and near Southeast Asia. He also helped instigate the 1953 Iranian coup d'état and the 1954 Guatemalan coup d'état. Dulles advocated support of the French in their war against the Viet Minh in Indochina, but rejected the Geneva Accords between France and the communists, instead supporting South Vietnam after the 1954 Geneva Conference. In 1959, suffering from cancer, Dulles resigned from office and died shortly after.

> The Holt family, Donegan family, and Prouty family are three legs upon which all other JFK truths are founded upon.
>
> If missing other parts of the story are free floating and fragmented but platformed on these three legs are a visible complete object visible from all angles as a whole. With these three, the pieces align into a clear, complete picture and the Giancana family, Hunt family, Wayne Madsen, and others telling tales fitting into this modeling of history.

The Shot-Callers of World Assasination Planning

THE "EASTERN ESTABLISHMENT"

Old mone of Old Boston, Charles Emmerson Winchester Protestant Conservative. Many still loyal to England. The Irish of the Republic of Ireland and the French fought at the Alamo in in the American Revolution aginst England. The British loyalists had been concerned over the non Great Brittain influences and passed the Alien and Sedition Act to lower French immigre interests. J.P Moran, George and William Randolpy Hearts, Nixon and Bush, Geral Ford and many others. Sullivan and Cromwell and Allen Dulles.

THE OSS AND CIA

Post WWII the CIA was created under the National Security Council and the National Security Council was created to be under the Vice President. US Representative and anti-Communist Richard Nixon in 1949 in international planning created the CIA architecture and inherited it in 1953 when Eisenhower- Nixon were inaugrauted folling the Truman as President.

THE MAFIA AND FRONT GROUPS

The National Security Council legislation and oversight was very wide open and unlimited "Cloak and Dagger" were created. Companies like Zapata were fundedd by the CIA and operated by CIA connected people like George H.W. Bush. Executives like Phillip Twombly of Cocoa-Cola consulted ans supported CIA operation in the Carribeean. Murder Inc, the Segal Lanksy Mob provided hit men and smuggling and cover piloting of CIA aircraft. Much was interconnected with gambling, drugs, Cuba, and the Mafia. The US DOD Black Opps places like Pentagon Office of Special Operations later the Defense Intelligence Agency supported these CIA actions.

Michael Rockefeller, the youngest son of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller later V.P. under Ford, was reported missing on Nov. 21, 1961 (AP)

On how Micheal Rockefeller's disappearance affected the Dutch, who were fighting to keep their colony Michael's disappearance came at the worst possible time for the Dutch. At the very same time that he disappeared, the Dutch were engaged in this complex political struggle in the United Nations to retain [their] colony. And when he disappeared, the search and rescue was a great opportunity to show the world how committed the Dutch were and how effective and efficient they were.

When rumors surfaced that Michael had in fact not just disappeared at sea, but had been possibly murdered and cannibalized by the residents of [the] colony, it was the worst thing possible. It complicated the Dutch efforts and they didn't want any part of it and brushed it under the rug. https://www.wbur.org/npr/291140637/cannibals-and-colonialism-solving-the-mystery-of-michael-rockefeller

Wayne Madsen will assert under MK-Ultra overthrows Barrack Obama Jr. was a plan launched by Allen Dulles, the CIA, East-West-Center (LBJ) and others in a plan for influence in Indonesia

Indonesia 1958: Nixon, the CIA, and the Secret War* © 1976 by L. Fletcher Prouty is coming back to haunt us now that biographies of that area are being researched and released including Prouty's own autobiograpy and Ed Donegan's autobiograpy

Bissle Jr
U2 G. Powers
BBRDW
Bank of
Hawaii/Chase
Manhattan
Prouty
Jospeh
Kennedy Jr S.
Univ. of
Hawaii
Behavioral
Sciences
MKULTRA
East-West
Center
University of Hawaii
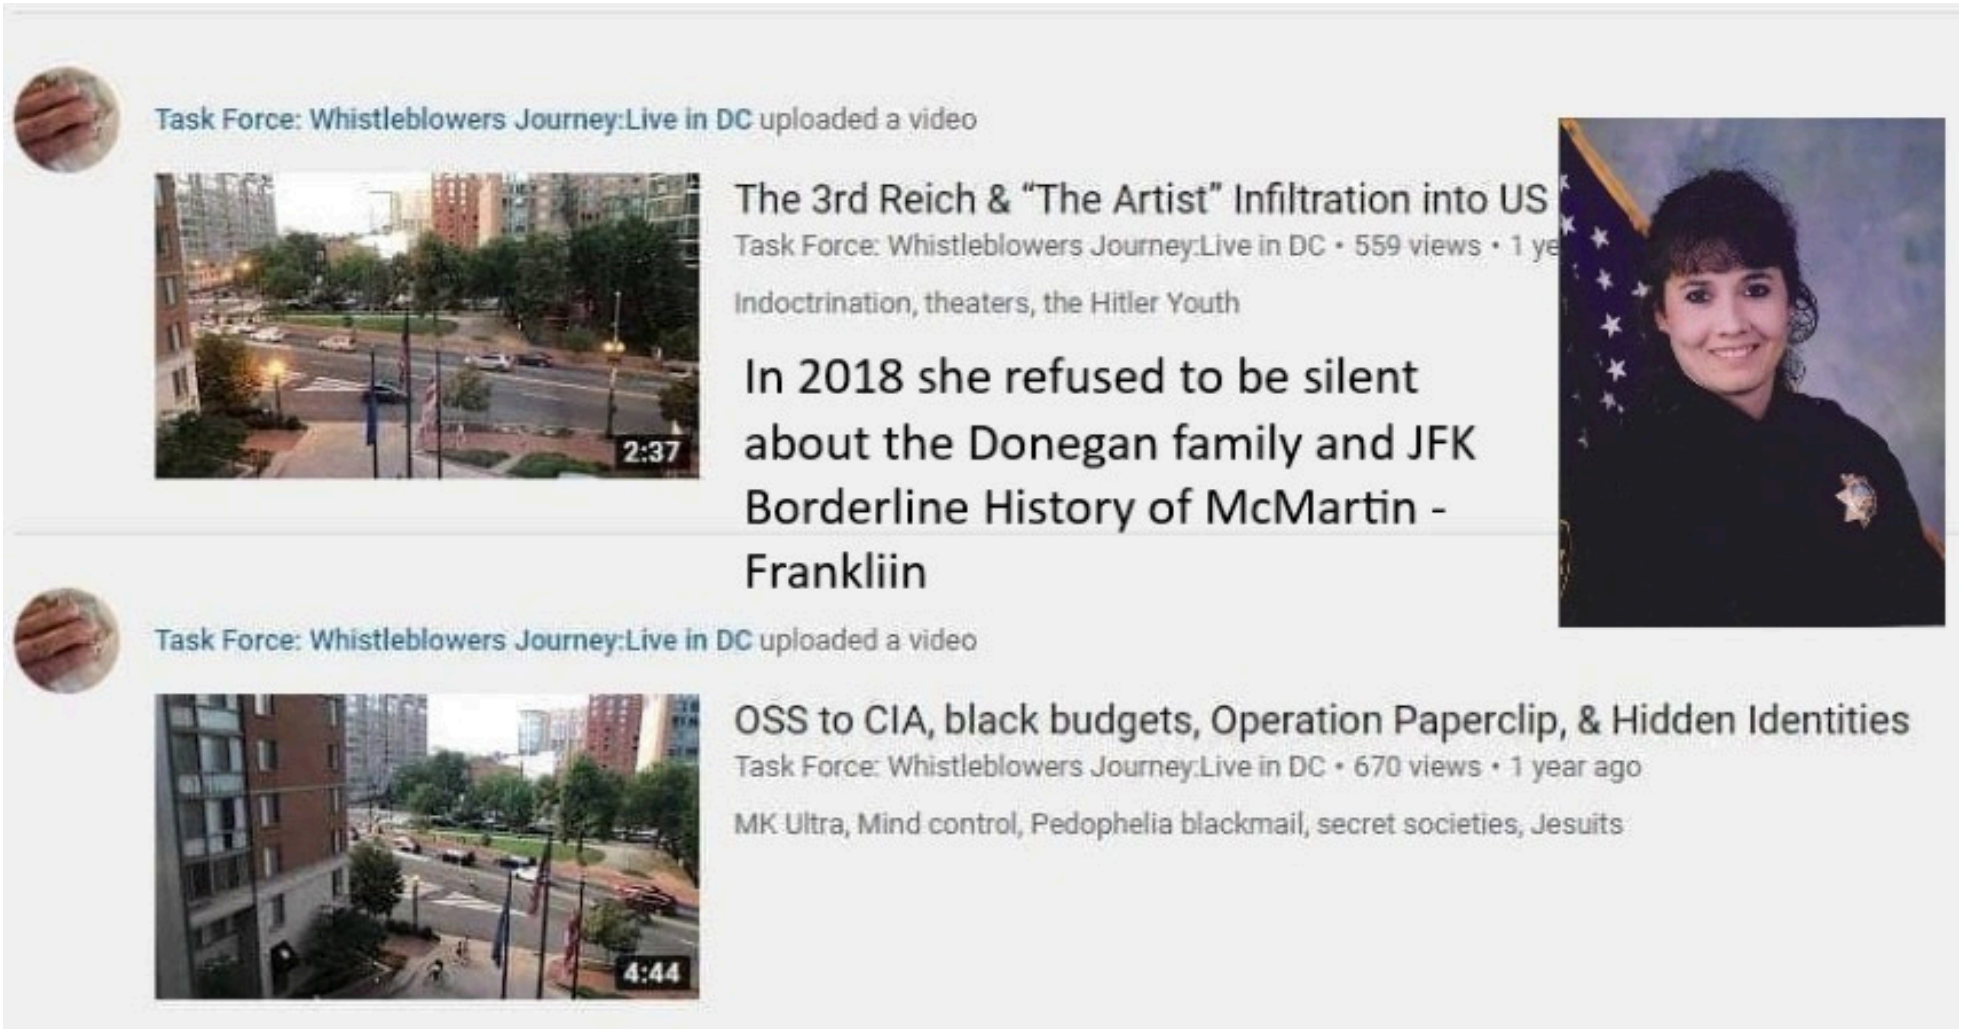
V.P. Nixon
Prouty NSC
CIA
NSC 5412
lee
Harvey
Oswald
Donegan
F86
Sabre
ATSUGI
CIA
Indonesia
Suharto/The
Crane Group
1958
USAID/Peace
Corps/Ford
Foundation
Hughes
RKO Jet
Pilot
Atsugi CIA station 1st
to believe CIA killed
James Donegan storied pilot
still intercepting blips Korean
1952-54 - Assigned to Korean War duties in Japan. Military Manager, Tokyo International Airport (Haneda) during Occupation. Commander, Military Air Transport Service, Heavy Transport Squadron responsible for military and to diplomatic flights from Toyko to Saudi Arabia and back, in addition to daily flights to Korea, Honolulu and Pacific Islands. Founder, Toyko Toastmasters Club. Attended, JCS operated Armed Forces Staff College, Norfolk,
1955-1964 - Assigned to Headquarters, U.S. Air Force and directed to create an Air Force world-wide system for "Military Support of the Clandestine Operations of the CIA", as required by a new National Security Council Directive 5412 of March, 1954. - Wrote this policy in conjunction with Air Force General Counsel and CIA's General Counsel. Set up a TOP SECRET world wide support force and communications system. Was sent around the world by the Director, Central Intelligence, Allen W. Dulles, to meet the CIA Station Chiefs, 1956. Directed Air Force participation in countless CIA operations during this period. As a result of a CIA Commendation for this work, awarded the Legion of Merit by the Air Force, promoted to Colonel and assigned to the Office of the Secretary of Defense to carry out this same type of work for all military services. Assigned to the Office of Special Operations.
Prouty Resume includes where James Paul Donegan was Japan recon intercepting and flyovers along with Gary Powers and Power's U2 for the CIA

CIA_BissleJr.McCone.ProutyAngletonDoneganCabellLansdale.jpg

Col. Fletcher Prouty was part of US Air Force (who my father also flew for) the CIA secret operations including the Indonesia plan launched by Allen and John Foster Dulles under V.P. Nixon, President of the Senate LBJ, and others.

This image CIA_BissleJr.McCone.ProutyAngletonDoneganCabellLansdale.jpg is an overlay of three diagrams. Wayen Madsen in the CIA manufacture of President Barrack Obama Jr. involving his parents with senior level cold war CIA connected adult parents. It is also an overlay image with the Donegan family story, born James Donegan born in Dorchester in the same parish as the Kennedy's with strong feelings about British oppresion. James Donegan, Prouty and others like E. Howard Hunt and Holt followed the same Air Force hot-spots through WW 2 and the Cold War including under Bissle, Lovett, and others in RECON for CIA planning of military actions and strategies.



Task Force: Whistleblowers Journey:Live in DC uploaded a video
2:37
The 3rd Reich & "The Artist" Infiltration into US
Task Force: Whistleblowers Journey:Live in DC • 559 views • 1 ye Indoctrination, theaters, the Hitler Youth
In 2018 she refused to be silent about the Donegan family and JFK Borderline History of McMartin - Frankliin
Task Force: Whistleblowers Journey:Live in DC uploaded a video
4:44
OSS to CIA, black budgets, Operation Paperclip, & Hidden Identities
Task Force: Whistleblowers Journey:Live in DC • 670 views • 1 year ago
MK Ultra, Mind control, Pedophelia blackmail, secret societies, Jesuits

> JenMooreDeceased.jpg

JenMooreDeceased.jpg is Jen Moore former Tracy PD police officer and later researcher with files access to CIA activities that pertain to the Donegan family she was filming in that second floor apartment. During the rise of Nazis in the 1920s there were underground railroads into the USA by Dean Rusk's church and other church groups. This had included an impregnated young woman from the Convent. She was given special treatment by the Vatican for several reasons, they opposed abortions, and the father was from Great Britain, in those early years Prince Edward of Wales was closer to the Nazis than Great Britain wished. Being born in the USA and having those like Jospeph Kennedy Sr. carefully watch out for them was part of "Hidden Identies" that Jen Moore was to reveal, the Donegan family name before she died. How Prouty, Dean Rusk, Allen and John Foster Dulles, V.P. Richard Nixon and Mr George H.W. Bush of the CIA was part of this history and how JFK found himslef in the way of this now is a topic of many books and my books are about my family in this story and Jen Moore being assasinated telling this story and possible Nancy Gutrhrie now deceased too.

After the (secretly ordered) deaths of Marilyn Monroe, JFK and RFK the Indonesia program continued as official US policy>

>

This does not mean the Guthrie's new JKF was assasinated or anyone else was but it does mean that with having had some proximity could help fill in the full picture of events

Savannah Guthrie was born in Melbourne, Australia (Dec 27, 1971). Her parents are Americans, and her father Charles Guthrie worked in Australia as a mining engineer when she was born. The family moved back to the United States when she was about 2, and she grew up in Tucson, Arizona.

The Holt team working and flying for the CIA in Indonesia and Guatamala operated out of Grace Ranch, Tuscon, AZ for aircraft remanufacturing and Los Angeles and the Univeristy Bank of Fullerton for arms and surplus aircraft sales posing and acting as military advisors to governments about surplus WW 2 aicraft. The complex financial and military plans with Suharto and the New Order included mining deals and infrastructure projects the Charles Guthrie may have been involved with.

> New Order Economy
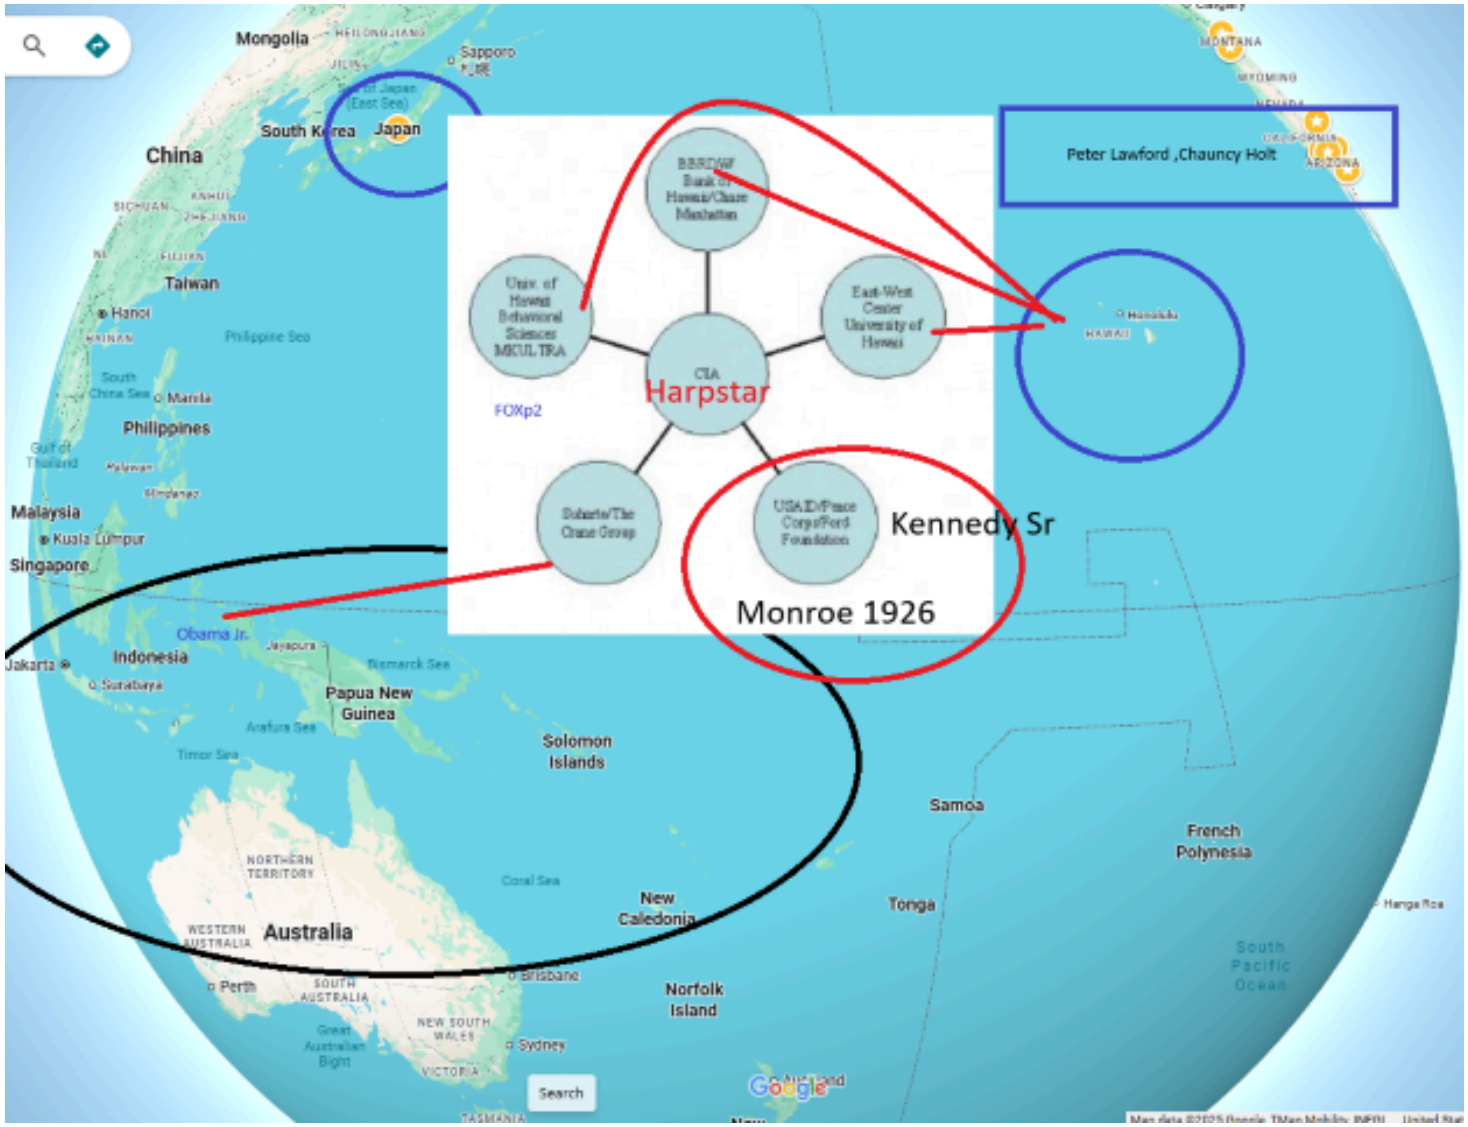
>
> The new president [Suharto] enlisted a group of mostly American-educated Indonesian economists, dubbed the "Berkeley Mafia, to formulate government economic policy. By cutting subsidies and government debt, and reforming the exchange rate mechanism, inflation dropped from 660% in 1966 to 19% in 1969. The threat of famine was alleviated by influx of USAID rice aid shipments in 1967 to 1968. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/New_Order_(Indonesia)

This is an important time and Ed Donegan asserts this is a facet of Watergate and Nixon having 1957 plans for Indonesia that JFK and RFK would come to oppose, the JFK was assinated over, and Nixon was impeached in efforts to cover up. This is the time of investigation by the press and Congress and the UAL 553 crahs, Rocky Horror movie and Lennon living in the Peter Lawford home as that was being filmed.

> Marilyn Monroe also closely connected to Joseph Kennedy Sr. was used in MK-Ultra to influce Surkano and other operations affecting Indonesia

IndoCropCircles.wordpress.com



LA%20Bound/UsingMadsenExplanation.png show closer to the original six blue dot diagram by Wayne Madsen who used declassified CIA files and what I have added in also from declasifications and the collected anthology of the biographies of those invovled including death-bed confessions I have weaved together.

According to Sam Giancan (boss of Chaucny Holt and who worked for William King Harvey) Monroe was killed on his (Giancana's) orders because she had intended to talk. The Donegan's per my older brother Tom Donegan had long connections to the "Irish Mafia" that had been the group around John F. Kennedy and through Jospeh Kennedy Sr.

IGGI stands for the Inter-Governmental Group on Indonesia — a donor consortium created to coordinate large-scale foreign assistance to Indonesia during the early Suharto "New Order" period.

What IGGI was

- → Established: 1967 as a donor coordination group for Indonesia.
- → Purpose: Coordinate external financing (aid, credits, technical assistance) tied to Indonesia's stabilization, rehabilitation, and development plans.
- → How it worked: Donors met periodically to review Indonesia's needs and align pledges/commitments.

Who led it

- → IGGI was founded and chaired by the Netherlands for most of its existence.

Why it matters for "roads/bridges vs. mining deals" research

- → IGGI was a key mechanism through which "soft power" financing became organized and scaled.
- → It provided a forum for funding Indonesia's development program, which could include infrastructure, sector planning, and technical cooperation (often alongside the World Bank, ADB, and IMF).

- ➜ U.S. government records discuss IGGI pledges and deliberations about U.S. burden-sharing in donor rounds.

What happened to IGGI

- ➜ Replaced in 1992: Indonesia asked for IGGI to be replaced by the Consultative Group on Indonesia (CGI), chaired by the World Bank.

- ➜ The Netherlands was not included in the CGI arrangement.

Ed Donegan asserts Charles and Nancy Guthrie were privy to some history Ed Donegan is writing about

PRC China (1949) refers to the founding of the on October 1, 1949, after the Communist Party won the Chinese Civil War. The Office of Policy Coordination (OPC) was the CIA's covert-action arm, formally established on September 1, 1948 to conduct covert political, psychological, economic, and paramilitary operations. In Japan, OPC had established a foothold by 1948, and by 1949	Before Watergate, E. Howard Hunt and Dorothy Hunt both had intelligence connections in Asia during the late 1940s–1950s: Hunt worked in early CIA covert operations, some organized through the Office of Policy Coordination, the CIA's covert-action branch. These operations included activities related to post-World War II intelligence networks in East Asia, especially involving China and Japan during the early Cold War. Col Fletcher Prouty and James Donegan present too.
Korea and Vientam are similar	Chinese troops fought U.S. and other UN forces in the Korean War. China entered the war in October 1950, sending forces under the name Chinese People's Volunteers after UN forces pushed north toward the Yalu River on the Chinese border. This intervention changed the war. Chinese attacks in late 1950 pushed U.S./UN forces back from North Korea, and the conflict eventually settled into a long stalemate around the 38th parallel before the 1953 armistice. By mid-1951, U.S. intelligence estimated about 277,000 Chinese troops were deployed in Korea, with additional Chinese forces in Manchuria

Indonesia, Hawaii, Guatamla, and otherr nations also are CIA targets.	Vice President Nixon and Executive Action and the bakcing of Suharto
Bay of Pigs Invasion April 17–20, 1961 John F. Kennedy Cuban Missile Crisis October 16–28, 1962 John F. Kennedy	John Foster Dulles has already died, Dean Rusk is in at State Dept., Kennedy fires Allen Dulles, Allen Dulles has plans for Indonesia made with Nixon, LBJ, and the CIA. Uses Holt, gold mining deals, etc.,
JFK and later RFK assainated. The assassination of John F. Kennedy occurred on November 22, 1963.	Indonesian plans continue. Grace Ranch is part of it.

----- QUOTED -----

There are a few separate claims bundled together here, so it helps to disentangle what is well-supported history from what is speculative / contested.

1) “USAID was used as CIA cover” — broadly true (in some places), but the leap to “plants to influence Indonesia” needs evidence

Even Wayne Madsen's own pieces concede (and try to build on) a real, documented pattern: USAID has at times been used as cover for CIA officers/operations, especially during the Cold War.

- ➜ In Madsen's Part II, he asserts that Obama's mother taught English in Jakarta "for USAID," and claims USAID was "a major cover for CIA activities in Indonesia and throughout Southeast Asia."
- ➜ Separately from Madsen, there is strong primary-source support that USAID cover happened in Laos: a declassified CIA Reading Room document of an interview with USAID Administrator John A. Hannah includes him admitting that USAID was being used as CIA cover in Laos.

What's not automatic is the next step: "therefore USAID ran 'plants' in Indonesia under the Dulles brothers." That would require:

- ➜ specific declassified operational records (names, programs, chains of command), or
- ➜ credible scholarly/archival work demonstrating USAID staffing in Indonesia was systematically used that way under Dulles-era direction.

Madsen asserts this kind of thing, but assertions ≠ proof.

2) "The US/CIA influenced the Suharto-era trajectory" — heavily documented, but that doesn't imply the Obama-family claim

US involvement around the 1965–66 mass violence and political shift in Indonesia is well documented in mainstream historical scholarship and declassified material.

- ➜ Reporting on newly declassified US embassy records indicates US officials tracked the killings and provided support; it also discusses lists of suspected communists being provided to Indonesian forces.

- ➜ There are also declassified CIA materials and State Department FRUS volumes relevant to the 1965 events and aftermath.

So: “US intelligence/policy apparatus influenced Indonesia” is a credible, mainstream claim.

But: that does not establish “the CIA was involved with the Obama family in the 1950s–60s.” That is a separate claim that needs its own evidence trail.

3) Wayne Madsen’s reliability — widely criticized

If you’re evaluating “contested areas,” the source reliability matters a lot. Madsen is widely described as a conspiracy theorist, and specific pieces based on his claims have been publicly walked back or criticized by journalism watchdogs and academics.

- ➜ Poynter covered a case where The Observer pulled a story that relied on a Wayne Madsen conspiracy claim.
- ➜ An academic critique explicitly characterizes many of Madsen’s claims as unfounded innuendo and lacking credibility.
- ➜ Background summaries also label him a conspiracy theorist.

That doesn’t mean “everything he says is false,” but it means you should treat his Obama/CIA connections as “extraordinary claims” requiring unusually strong documentation.

4) What your uploaded Madsen text actually does (and doesn’t) show

From the excerpts in the two PDFs you uploaded, Madsen mainly:

- ➜ strings together real entities (USAID, Ford Foundation, East-West Center, Suharto-era Indonesia, CIA activity broadly) and

- ➜ uses that proximity to imply family-level CIA operational ties.

Examples:

- ➜ Part I claims CIA connections around “Airlift Africa” and Obama Sr.
- ➜ Part II claims USAID and other organizations were “front activities” for CIA “hearts and minds” operations, and places Ann Dunham Soetoro in that context.

But within the text you shared, I’m not seeing the kind of hard documentation you’d want for the strongest version of the claim (e.g., “X person was CIA,” “here is the personnel record,” “here is the declassified operational cable tying Y to Z”). It’s largely narrative inference.

A practical way to evaluate the “Obama family CIA in the 50s/60s” claim

If someone wants that claim to stand up, they need at least one of these:

- ➜ Declassified personnel/operational files naming the individual(s) as CIA, or
- ➜ A well-sourced archival biography by reputable historians/journalists, or
- ➜ Corroborated records (employment, postings, program rosters) that can’t be explained by ordinary academic/diplomatic work.

If all you have is “USAID was sometimes CIA cover” + “Indonesia was a Cold War battleground” + “Obama relatives were in/around those institutions,” that’s not enough.

If you tell me which specific “plants” allegation you mean (e.g., a named USAID program, a named person, a quoted document), I can evaluate whether there are primary sources for that specific point—or whether it’s just the familiar Cold War fact pattern being stretched into a family-conspiracy narrative.

----- END QUOTED -----

----- QUOTED -----

> The B-26 (known to be made by Holt at Grace Ranch from surplus B-26 bombers) were ready to fly and a special ferrying arrangement was made with the Air Force to fly them across the Pacific to the Philippines and Menado. Rebel Indonesians, trained and equipped in the Philippines, were returned to Sumatra. Some were air-dropped and others landed on the beach from submarines that the U.S. Navy was operating, in support of the CIA, in the oceans south of Indonesia near the Christmas Islands. The war was on. - Prouty

----- END QUOTED -----

High-confidence: Charles Guthrie was a mining engineer; it's plausible his work was entirely in Australia (and possibly nearby Pacific regions). Low-confidence / hypothesis: Some mining engineers and mining firms had dealings with Indonesia during the New Order; it's possible—but not established—that Charles Guthrie did. Freeport was the first major foreign company to sign a mining agreement in Indonesia's "New Order" period. The original Contract of Work dates to 1967, right as Suharto consolidated power and Indonesia began courting foreign capital.

Samantha Guthrie Born: December 27, 1971 Melbourne and this in important for what Prouty called the Bamboo Curtian and the Pacific. It is a time of Vietman following from Korea in the Cold War. And the Indonesian Civil War and 1968, the assasination of RFK 1968 and Suharto gaining power in the New Order of Indoneisa.

Samantha Guthrie (born Dec 27, 1971 in Melbourne) sits inside a much larger Cold War / Asia–Pacific timeline—the kind of framing L. Fletcher Prouty liked to use when he talked about big geopolitical "curtains" and U.S. strategy. Many authors refering to declassified documents alledge and the Prouty assertions the CIA and 7th Fleet (Australia and US WW 2 fighting partners) had ties to Indonesia through Auastralia and other partners and the Obama Family who lived in Indonesia had CIA connections in Hawaii, Kenya, the USA, and Indonesia.

These family members were certainly close enough to be aware of covert history of the CIA under Richard Nixon and the involvment of multiple presidencies. Michael Feldman (Husband of Samanty Guthrie thus in the Guthrie family) and Joe Lockhart did co-found The Glover Park Group and long-running Democrat officials often or mostly All Gore who is rarely cited in Deep State conspiracy theories. The Demorcat connections included ties to Barrack Obama Jr, in the same post presidency house that Jen Moore cited in her videos included in the archive. Donald Trump In office January 20, 2017 – January 20, 2021 Vice President Mike Pence Preceded by Barack Obama Jr. (the last president before Donald Trump lived in the house refererd to she says at 22 seconds in Can't get into the Elite onto Rock Creek Park.mp4 https://youtu.be/Wc-hhHLZWag?si=H-qfNGSi0cpvE3-i as online) , the post presidency D.C. home that the the Obama family owned post-presidenty an then bought by the Joe Lokcart. So the Obama connections are very strong buy Indonesia history and Grace Ranch, AZ actions Holt and Prouty cite for Indonesia, by family connetions, and even in homes, the Obama post presidentail home and the marriages and busines parterships inside this marriage connected family.

A few anchor points (with concrete dates) to tighten the timeline you're sketching:

- → RFK assassination (1968): Robert F. Kennedy was shot just after midnight on June 5, 1968, and died on June 6, 1968.
- → Indonesia and the "New Order" (mid-1960s into late-1960s): what's often described as Indonesia's decisive Cold War pivot isn't usually framed as a "civil war" in 1968, but rather 1965–1966 (the aftermath of the 30 September Movement and the mass killings of 1965–66) and 1966–1968 (consolidation of Suharto's "New Order," with U.S. government documents describing the New Order as "well established in power" and Sukarno being pushed out as a political force).

- ➔ Vietnam and the Cold War context around 1971: Dec 27, 1971 lands while the Vietnam War was still ongoing (with U.S. withdrawal underway) and the broader "containment" logic in Asia still driving policy; Australia (including Melbourne) sat within the wider Western alliance context in the Pacific.

- ➔ "Bamboo Curtain" (Prouty framing vs common usage): "Bamboo Curtain" is a Cold War phrase generally used for the communist bloc in East/Southeast Asia (especially China and aligned systems), analogous to "Iron Curtain," and it appears in U.S. Congressional records in the 1960s as geopolitical shorthand beyond any single author.

The key point: biography vs geopolitical "meaning." If your argument is interpretive—"a birth in Melbourne in 1971 is 'positioned' inside a Pacific Cold War arc"—that's a contextual claim, not proof of personal involvement. It can still be a valid framing, but it's stronger if you separate verifiable facts (dates/events) from interpretation (what it "signifies"), and anchor interpretation to specific Prouty text (what he meant by "Bamboo Curtain," what years/regions he emphasized).

If you paste the Prouty quote you're working from (or tell me the book + chapter), I can map your timeline directly onto his language and identify where your 1968/1971 link is strongest—and where it may be mixing separate sequences (Indonesia 1965–66 vs 1968, Korea vs Vietnam, etc.).

By L. Fletcher Prouty

What was the story behind Nixon's harsh action against Wisner?

Was that the deep-rooted reason why CIA top-echelon insiders such as Dick Helms really hated and distrusted Nixon? In later years did they take out their grudge against him with a piece of tape on a Watergate doorway? There may never be answers to these questions, or perhaps they have been answered already. It is said that when the great volcanic mountain of Krakatoa in Indonesia blew up causing the greatest explosion the world had ever known, the dust of Indonesia was spread all over the world. The holocausts of 1958 and 1965 may have done the same thing. - Prouty at the end of this peice he wrote.

----- QUOTED -----

Frank Wisner and E. Howard Hunt

Frank Gardiner Wisner (June 23, 1909 – October 29, 1965) was one of the founding officers of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and played a major role in CIA operations throughout the 1950s.

Wisner began his intelligence career in the Office of Strategic Services in World War II. After the war, he headed the Office of Policy Coordination (OPC), one of the OSS successor organizations, from 1948 to 1950. In 1950, the OPC was placed under the Central Intelligence Agency and renamed the Directorate of Plans. First headed by Allen Dulles, Wisner succeeded Dulles in 1951 when Dulles was named Director of Central Intelligence.

Wisner remained as Deputy Director of Plans (DDP) until September 1958, playing an important role in the early history of the CIA. He suffered a breakdown in 1958, and retired from the Agency in 1962. He committed suicide in 1965.

E. Howard Hunt (1918–2007) was a CIA officer who joined the Office of Policy Coordination (OPC) around 1949-1950, specializing in covert political action and psychological warfare. As a key operative under Frank Wisner, Hunt participated in early Cold War covert operations before becoming a central figure in the 1970s Watergate scandal.

Blood ran in the streets. Villages were wiped out and a million people massacred in a battle for the riches and political control of Indonesia.

Nixon and the CIA wanted Sukarno overthrown. But the creator of Indonesia knew how to fight.

----- END QUOTED -----

A letter from one of the most beautiful women in the world lies buried in a stack of mail on President Ford's desk. Written in Paris on July 24, 1975, by Dewi Sukarno, the former First Lady of Indonesia and widow of Dr. Achmed Sukarno, the charismatic Father of Indonesia, the letter is an appeal to President Ford for a complete explanation of the CIA-led and supported rebellions that took place in Indonesia in 1958 and 1965. It is not well known in the United States that the 1958 rebellion led to a major Indonesian civil war. The CIA-inspired uprising in Indonesia, unlike the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba, was a full-scale military operation. The Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961 was made by a thin brigade of about 1,500 Cuban exiles trained by the CIA in Guatemala. But the 1958 Indonesian action involved no less than 42,000 CIA-armed rebels supported by a fleet of bombers and vast numbers of four-engine transport aircraft as well as submarine assistance from the U.S. Navy. It also involved a major training and logistical supporting effort on the part of the Philippines, Okinawa, Taiwan, and Singapore. But despite this massive armed force, the 1958 rebellion, like the Bay of Pigs invasion, was a total failure. Sukarno's army drove the rebels on Sumatra and Celebes into the sea.

There are some who might call the 1965 uprising a success. At least the rebels were not driven into the sea. However, for the United States it was a fantastically costly endeavor. The rebellion ended in the most massive and ruthless bloodbath since World War II. While the headlines in the United States dealt with the slaughter in Vietnam, the press of the rest of the world heaped blame on the United States for the barbaric massacre in Indonesia. The victorious new government of General Suharto proceeded to assassinate nearly one million people. This terrible slaughter and the ensuing imprisonment of tens of thousands of Indonesians stirred Dewi Sukarno to seek President Ford's assistance in gaining the release of her countrymen from prison.

Dewi Sukarno has received no answer. But even without a reply she knows. The silence from Washington speaks for itself. A denial, if true, would have come without hesitation. The Indonesians know. The Latins had a phrase for it, "Is fecit cui prodest" - the perpetrator of a crime is he who profits by it. Today, major U.S. enterprises are plundering the raw material wealth of Indonesia - rubber, tin, and oil - in a manner that is more vile than what is happening in Chile. And there is no one to stop them.

Achmed Sukarno was one of those rare men who rose during the hours of crisis to unite one hundred million people and lead them out of the ashes of World War II. Sukarno came to liberate his country from the Japanese, the Dutch, the Portuguese, and from all others who were ready to enslave his country once again. He established his government on the "Five Pillars": (l) belief in one supreme God (2) just and civilized humanity (3) unity of Indonesia (4) democracy (5) social justice.

Sukarno was forced to thread his way between communism and capitalism. His independence made him both friends and enemies. His worst enemies came from his polyglot people who are scattered over more than 3,000 islands. These islands make up the world's largest archipelago; they stretch along the equator for over 3,400 miles and are located in Southeast Asia between the Philippines and Australia. From one of these islands came Lt. Col. Alex Kawilarang, the military attache serving in Washington who was to defect to the rebel forces and lead the rebel contingent on Sumatra, the Indonesian island richest in natural resources.

----- QUOTED -----

His Excellency President Gerald Ford
The White House
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. President,

As the widow of the late President Sukarno and being the only member of the family living overseas, I address myself to you, being deeply alarmed and disturbed by numerous and persistent reports in the international press. For instance, the CIA is said to have spied on my husband: manufactured a fake film in order to slander the good name and honor of Sukarno: prepared an assassination attempt against him and conspired to oust him from power to estrange him from the Indonesian people by accusing him of collaborating with international communism in betrayal of Indonesian independence, which of course was totally absurd.

My husband has repeatedly informed me that he was fully aware of these immoral, illegal, subversive, anti-Indonesian activities against his beloved Indonesia, his people, and against him personally.

I would like to request from you, as well as from the responsible Congressional Committees in the United States a full explanation about these reports and reprehensible practices as carried out by an official United States Government Agency in the name of several American Presidents and Governments.

Both in 1958 and in 1965, the CIA directly interfered in the internal affairs of Indonesia. In 1958, this monstrous action led to civil war.

In 1965, it led to the ultimate takeover by a pro-Amencan military regime, while hundreds of thousands of innocent peasants and loyal citizens were massacred in the name of this insane crusade against international communism. Still today, ten years later, many tens of thousands of true patriots and Sukarnoists are locked up in jails and concentration camps being denied the simplest and most elementary human rights. American companies and aggressive foreign interests are indiscriminately plundering the natural riches of Indonesia to the advantage of the few and the disadvantage of the millions of unemployed and impoverished masses.

I must now ask you, Mr. President, in the name of freedom and justice, in the name of decency in relations between states and statesmen, between powerful nations and developing lands, in the name of the Indonesian people and the Sukarno family: did the United States of America commit these hideous crimes against Indonesia and against the founder of the nation? Will your Government be prepared to accept responsibility for these evil practices? Over one hundred million Indonesians have been brainwashed, as was the rest of the world by the present regime's propaganda to believe that the communists carried out the insurrection. My countrymen, as well as everyone else, have the right to know the truth of the historic facts. It will be the painful duty for America now to reveal the CIA involvement in Indonesia and release all information and documents relevant to who really initiated the terrifying bloodbath that led to the overthrow of the legal Government and to the inhuman treatment in house arrest lasting three years until my husband's death.

In closing, I would like to strongly appeal to you, Mr. President, to use your influence with the military regime in Jakarta, to immediately free those many thousands of political prisoners, men and women, former cabinet ministers, writers and journalists, who I know are entirely innocent of the crime of treason they have been accused of. If the United States were to be instrumental in helping to improve the fate of so many thousands of courageous compatriots, I think the entire Indonesian nation would be grateful and Indonesians would regain their confidence in America's intentions towards the Third World.

Respectfully,

R. S. Dewi Sukarno

July 24, 1975

----- END QUOTED -----

What is not generally known about the complex Indonesian struggle is the role that was played by the then Vice President of the United States, Richard M. Nixon, and the bitter aftermath that involved the sudden ouster of Allen Dulles' protege, Frank Wisner, who at that time was the head of the clandestine arm of the CIA.

After Watergate, when Anthony Lukas wrote in his book Nightmare, about the growing mistrust between Nixon and the Director of Central Intelligence, Richard Helms, he could have added that since the 1958 Indonesian rebellion there were many in the CIA who made a career of hating Nixon because of what he had done to Frank Wisner, among others.

The Indonesian campaign began rather casually as so many CIA ventures do. Few if any ever originate at the top.

During an unguarded conversation in Washington the Indonesian military attache mentioned earlier made it known to certain U.S. military acquaintances that there were many prominent and strong people in Indonesia who would be ready to rise against Sukarno if they were given a little support and encouragement from the United States. It happened that one of those U.S. military friends he talked to was not a military man at all, but a member of the CIA. The provocative words got back to Frank Wisner, then the Deputy Director of Plans. He was in charge of the CIA's clandestine activity and he authorized agents to follow up on that first conversation.

The Indonesian attache was wined and dined and encouraged to talk more. Reasons for the attache's return to Indonesia on official business were successfully arranged. He was accompanied by CIA agents traveling under the cover of "U.S. military" personnel. During this visit they spoke with rebel leaders. They learned enough about the potential strength of this opposition to encourage the CIA to set in motion its biggest operation up to that date.

In the Philippines there was a strong nucleus of military men, chief among them a Colonel Valeriano, who had been President Magsaysay's military assistant. He had also worked on paramilitary exercises with the CIA during the Magsaysay campaign against the leftist rebel Huk movement. This military group had gained considerable power during the Magsaysay tenure. Many of these special warfare experts from the Philippines had volunteered for duty in South Vietnam in 1955 when the CIA was deeply involved in providing undercover support for the new and uncertain regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

By early 1958 these Filipinos and their CIA counterparts were prepared to involve the Philippines in the rebellion against Sukarno by setting up special warfare "Green Beret" training bases and by providing the Indonesian revolutionary council with clandestine air bases. One of those bases was on Palawan, the most western island of the Philippine archipelago, in the vicinity of the airfield at Puerto Princessa on Honda Bay. The other base was on the big southern island of Mindanao, near Davao Gulf.

Concurrently, in Washington, operations were being organized. Frank Wisner took over direct command of the everyday operations of the Indonesian project. A large staff under Desmond Fitzgerald of the Far East Division was set up. The most active element of this special staff came from the CIA's clandestine Air Division which at that time was under the control of Dick Helms. As the plans expanded for this major undertaking, requirements for military equipment, people, aircraft, weapons, bases, submarines, and communications skyrocketed.

In the Pentagon there are thousands of nondescript offices in which all sorts of tasks are done. One of these unobtrusive offices was an Air Force Plans Division office. One day in 1958 two men from the CIA entered that office. After being identified they were permitted entrance to an interior office that was the "Focal Point" office for all U.S. Air Force Support of the clandestine operations of the CIA. I had established that office in 1955 on orders from Gen. Thomas D. White, then Chief of Staff of the Air Force. This came about after several meetings with Allen W. Dulles, the Director of Central Intelligence, and others. When the CIA men entered that office in 1958, I was still in charge.

The agents outlined the Indonesian Plan, the Philippine support and training program, and told me about their own special operations staff that had been put together specifically for this vast project. Then they urgently requested light bombardment aircraft and long-range transport aircraft. We decided to take a number of twin engine B-26 aircraft out of bone-yard storage, put them through a retrofit line, and modify them so that they could be armed with a special 50-caliber machine gun package of eight guns, in the nose of the plane. This would give the B-26 more firepower than it ever had during the Korean War or World War II. The project was given top priority and covered in deep secrecy. Programs for pilot training and the recruitment of "mercenaries" were established.

Concurrent with our work the CIA was putting together a "wartime" operational staff. Lt. Gen. Earl Barnes, who had been a senior air commander during World War II under Gen. Douglas MacArthur, was brought in to run all clandestine air activities.

At that time Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer was Commander in Chief of the Ryukyu Command on Okinawa. One day he received a call from General David M. Shoup, the U.S. Marine Commander on Okinawa, asking if the Army could spare 14,000 rifles for a Marine requirement. Surprised at the Marine request for such a large order of guns, Lemnitzer acquiesced nonetheless and ordered the transfer of these weapons on the condition that they would be quickly replaced.

High on the ridge line of central Okinawa overlooking the city of Naha there was a modest size "Army" installation that hustled with considerable activity. This was the main CIA operational base in the Far East. It was under the direction of Ted Shannon, one of the Agency's most powerful agents. It was Shannon's office that had actually requested 42,000 rifles from General Shoup and since the order was so large Shoup had been unable to supply them, and had therefore borrowed 14,000 from the Army.

On nearby Taiwan, the CIA had another large facility - a "Navy" base known as the Naval Auxiliary Communication Center (NACC). This "Comm Center" controlled a large and very active air base a few miles south of Taiwan's capital, Taipei, and the huge Air America facilities near Taipei and the city of Tainan.

The B-26 bombers were ready to fly and a special ferrying arrangement was made with the Air Force to fly them across the Pacific to the Philippines and Menado.

Rebel Indonesians, trained and equipped in the Philippines, were returned to Sumatra. Some were air-dropped and others landed on the beach from submarines that the U.S. Navy was operating, in support of the CIA, in the oceans south of Indonesia near the Christmas Islands.

The war was on.

On Feb. 9, 1958, rebel Colonel Maluddin Simbolon issued an ultimatum in the name of a provincial government, the Central Sumatran Revolutionary Council, calling for the formation of a new central government. Sukarno refused and called upon his loyal army commander, General Abdul Haris Nasution, to destroy the rebel forces. By Feb. 21 loyal forces had been airlifted to Sumatra and had begun the attack. The rebel headquarters was in the southern coastal city of Padang. Rebel strongholds stretched all the way to Medan, near the northern end of the island and not far from Malaysia.

This was important administratively because by that time Frank Wisner, the CIA Deputy Director of Plans, had set up his forward headquarters in Singapore and at the direction of the 5412 Committee of the National Security Council, headed by Nixon, Wisner occupied that faraway headquarters himself. (It should be noted that in 1958 Allen Dulles was the head of the CIA, his brother John Foster Dulles was the Secretary of State, Eisenhower was President, and Nixon, as Vice President, chaired the clandestine affairs committee, then known as the "Special Group 5412/2." In other words nothing was done in Indonesia that was not directed by Nixon. If an action had not been directed by the NSC, then it was done unlawfully by the CIA.)

In 1958 Allen Dulles would have brought such a major operation to the attention of the Special Group and he would operate with its approval. This was an essential step in national policy because it then empowered the Department of Defense to provide the necessary support requested by the CIA. Much of this fell within the area of my responsibility at Air Force Headquarters, and I was kept informed on a regular basis of approved action and of Nixon's keen interest in this project.

The rebellion flared sporadically from one end of Indonesia to the other.

While the CIA was supporting up to 100,000 rebels, the State Department professed innocence. The U.S. ambassador, Howard P. Jones, maintained that the United States had nothing to do with the rebellion and he protested the capture of the American oil properties. On the other hand, Sukarno had asked for more arms aid from the United States. He must have had strong suspicions about the source of rebel support. The vast number of guns, the bombers and heavy air transport aircraft dropping hundreds of tons of arms and equipment, as well as submarines supporting beach operations were just too sophisticated to be anything but major power ploys. Thus, his appeal for U.S. arms aid had the ring of gamesmanship.

Playing along with the game, John Foster Dulles issued a statement saying that the United States would not provide arms to either side. And while he was publishing that falsehood, the United States furnished and piloted B-26 bombers, and these were bombing shipping in the Makassar Straits. Some had even flown as far south as the Java Sea. Almost immediately all insurance rates on shipping to and from Indonesia went on a wartime scale and costs became so prohibitive that most shipping actually ceased. The bombing attacks, kept so quiet in the United States that they hardly made the news, were being viewed with great alarm by the rest of the world. What was "Top Secret" in Washington was barroom gossip in the capitals of the world.

While Wisner communicated with Washington clandestinely, anyone in the bar at the Raffles Hotel in Singapore, in the Peninsula Hotel in Kowloon, or even on the streets of Istanbul, could learn all about the "American CIA attack" on Sukarno.

The CIA was demanding so much support for its far-flung operations that a top-level committee was established in the Pentagon. Its purpose was to keep track of how much war equipment was being requested and sent to Indonesia. Not unlike the Lemnitzer-Shoup rifle problem, there were problems in the Pentagon because of the way the CIA requested equipment through phony "military" cover channels.

Early in this operation I had put some men from my office into the air-combat section in the Philippines, and the Air Force was reasonably well aware of what was going on. But that was not so for the other services. At the time, Admiral Arleigh Burke was the Chief of Naval Operations. He went one step further than we did. At the height of the rebel operations, Burke sent his Chief of Naval Intelligence, Admiral Luther Frost, to Jakarta, Indonesia's capital, where he stayed for several months carrying on a delicate relationship with the American ambassador and with the Indonesian naval chiefs. This, while U.S. Navy submarines were aiding the rebels south of Sumatra. It turned out to have been a masterful gambit because later, when the rebellion collapsed, the U.S. Navy was able to declare innocence. The Air Force was not so fortunate.

The pretense that the U.S. Government was in no way involved in this massive civil war against Sukarno was wearing thin. It was a reasonable cover as long as the United States could plausibly deny its role in the action. But one day, a lone B-26 out of the rebel CIA base at Menado, flying low over the Straits of Makassar, came upon an Indonesian ship - an ideal target. The pilot banked to take a good run at the ship and began strafing it with those eight lethal .50-caliber machine guns. He was committed to the attack before he found out that the freighter was armed. The B-26 was hit and it ditched near the ship. The pilot, an American named Allan Lawrence Pope, was picked up. Pope was identified as a former U.S. Air Force pilot. The cork was out of the bottle. Sukarno had his proof of U.S. involvement and he played his ace card for an international audience. That one plane and that one pilot cost the U.S. Government tens of millions of dollars in ransom and tribute during the next several years.

After the capture of Pope the rebellion rapidly fell apart. Loyal forces captured Donggala in central Celebes. And on far away Halmahera, government forces captured Jailolo. That ended all opposition except for the CIA-rebel air base at Menado. With the rebellion all but crushed, except for the continued existence of the main CIA force, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles ended the embargo of arms to Sukarno and agreed to send aid to the government of Indonesia! What wondrous duplicity! And Sukarno was not fooled. His forces had been fighting a major civil war inspired and clandestinely supported by the United States, while concurrently the overt branches of the U.S. Government acted as though nothing at all had happened.

By the end of June 1958 it was all over. Then a very strange and rare (rare in terms of normal bureaucracy) thing happened. During the months of this operation it had been my custom to visit the CIA special operations center.

One morning I caught the unmarked, dull-green CIA shuttle bus at the Pentagon and rode to the operations center. I went in. Not a soul was there. The place had been cleaned out. Office after office was absolutely bare. Finally I found one secretary. She was sitting in a straight-back chair and her telephone was on the floor. There were tears in her eyes. She took a call from time to time and gave guarded answers about the former members of that huge staff. The entire section had been scattered to the four corners of the world. A large number of top-level, experienced, clandestine agents and operators had vanished. It took our Air Force office, skilled as we were in the ways of the CIA, months to find some of them again.

Then we began to piece together what had happened. With the collapse of such a major effort and with the inability of the Government to deny plausibly before the world its role in the whole sordid affair, blame had to be placed somewhere. In an unprecedented action, Nixon had summarily fired Frank Wisner, along with some others. But Frank Wisner, a longtime OSS and CIA man, was a key intelligence officer. Few knew enough about his career to realize that he was senior, by far, to Helms and Colby. Clearly, he was Allen Dulles' heir apparent.

When the OSS had been deactivated after World War II by President Truman, it was Wisner who had kept a tight-knit band of professionals together. This small cadre kept valuable OSS records and, more importantly, they had maintained the delicate lines of communication with agents, spies, and underground personnel in Eastern Europe, Russia, and Germany. They held this fragile web together. Without them hundreds of people might have been killed and priceless assets destroyed. And Frank Wisner suddenly, almost whimsically, had been fired.

To a man, the Agency was aroused by this action. Rightly or wrongly, they hated Nixon for this. I remember being at meetings during which the name of Nixon would be mentioned and I have seen CIA men bristle and redden as though someone had let a poisonous snake loose in the room. Some vowed he would never become President.

Meanwhile the Agency moved to pull itself together. That one deft bloodbath appeared to end things. There was no Board of Inquiry as there was after the Bay of Pigs. And, remarkably, there was no public outcry as there would be a few years later after the U-2 scandal. The agency was busy sweeping things under the rug.

Meanwhile those special B-26s were all flown back to the States and based at Elgin Air Force Base in Flonda. That was late in 1958. By 1959 they began to stir again. A man named Castro had come to power in Cuba. During those fateful days in April 1961 it was those same B-26s that the CIA used to attack Cuba.

This is the story that Dewi Sukarno is asking President Ford to explain to her and to the Indonesian people. Actually, the 1958 civil war was child's play compared to the brutal bloodbath of 1965. Sukarno was in control after the 1958 disaster and he wrung a heavy tribute from the U.S. Government for its indiscretions. But in 1965 his game ended, like Allende's in Chile, with defeat. An attempted communist coup d'etat was defeated by General Suharto. Sukarno never made the great public statement that was to assure the success of the coup, and after its defeat and the ensuing bloodbath, he was stripped of his power. After a few years of ignominious house arrest the hero of all Indonesia died in 1970.

What was the story behind Nixon's harsh action against Wisner?

Was that the deep-rooted reason why CIA top-echelon insiders such as Dick Helms really hated and distrusted Nixon? In later years did they take out their grudge against him with a piece of tape on a Watergate doorway? There may never be answers to these questions, or perhaps they have been answered already. It is said that when the great volcanic mountain of Krakatoa in Indonesia blew up causing the greatest explosion the world had ever known, the dust of Indonesia was spread all over the world. The holocausts of 1958 and 1965 may have done the same thing.

Just ask Secretary Rubio to call Senator Jim Webb Born Fighting the Scots Irish

John F. Kennedy won West Virginia when all thought it could not be done by a Boston Catholic

Resisting imperialism from a Bostonian struck a cord with Protestant West Virginians

Here's a solid "Part 2" summary of Born Fighting – The Scots-Irish (the Smithsonian Channel two-part documentary hosted/narrated by James Webb), where Part Two is commonly labeled "New World: Fight, Sing, Drink, Pray." (Source: paramountpressexpress.com)

Summary (Part 2: "New World — Fight, Sing, Drink, Pray")

Part 2 follows the Scots-Irish story in America—how a people formed by centuries of border conflict and displacement carried a distinct culture into the colonies and then into the United States, leaving an outsized mark on politics, warfare, religion, and popular culture. (Source: paramountpressexpress.com)

From immigrants to frontier "shock troops"

The episode emphasizes Scots-Irish settlement patterns—often pushing into the backcountry/frontier—and argues that life on contested edges reinforced habits of self-reliance, clan-style loyalty, and suspicion of distant authority (the "outside law" idea). (Source: paramountpressexpress.com)

Revolution and the making of American identity

It connects Scots-Irish communities to the Revolutionary era and presents them as a major driver of the era's militant resistance culture, framing this as part of how "ordinary" people helped harden an American identity built around independence. (Source: paramountpressexpress.com)

“Fight” — a long military thread

A central claim is that Scots-Irish culture helped seed a strong tradition of military service and combat leadership across U.S. conflicts (the program and Webb’s broader thesis highlight this repeatedly). (Source: paramountpressexpress.com)

“Pray” — evangelical religion and the Bible Belt

Part 2 ties Scots-Irish influence to the rise and spread of frontier Protestant/evangelical traditions, helping shape what later becomes the Bible Belt’s distinctive religious style and institutions. (Source: en.wikipedia.org)

“Sing” — folkways into country/roots music

It also argues their ballads, storytelling, and performance culture fed into Appalachian and later country/roots music, presenting this as a cultural through-line from the backcountry to modern American popular music. (Source: en.wikipedia.org)

“Drink” — social life, hard luck, and rough egalitarianism

Finally, the episode uses “drink” as shorthand for tavern culture, camaraderie, and a hard-edged, working-class social world—part of the broader portrait of a group shaped by poverty, violence, and distance from elites. (Source: thehistoricpresent.com)

The core takeaway

Part 2’s big idea: the Scots-Irish weren’t just another immigrant stream; Webb portrays them as a key cultural engine behind the U.S. backcountry ethos—martial tradition, populist politics, evangelical faith, and roots music—summed up in the slogan “fight, sing, drink, pray.” (Source: paramountpressexpress.com)

If you meant “Part 2 of the audiobook/book” instead of the Smithsonian documentary, tell me where Part 2 starts (chapter title or the first minute’s topic) and I’ll summarize that specific section precisely.

> Born Fighting: The Scots-Irish - Pt.1 Forged In Ulster

on the frontier in Western Pennsylvania seeing them I think as kind of hardened season Frontiers 8:51 Man Logan put out the call setting up a tract of land he called Donegal and the 8:56 Scots [Proteestant] Irish did come thousands crossed the ocean spilling straight from the ports into the empty unknown of the 9:03 American wilderness. Donegal Township and the small community of Donegal are located in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, in the western part of the state.

Why it’s called Donegal: The name comes from County Donegal in Ireland. The area was settled heavily by Scotch-Irish immigrants in the 1700s. These settlers named many Pennsylvania places after Irish counties they came from.

From Forged in Ulster channel (and County Donegal is in Ulster Province) The Scotts-Irish history by Jim Webb
https://youtu.be/r10CfVIxBmg?si=DLHOZYdT8DbI9qWY

* * * * * * *

The phrase you're thinking of is commonly rendered as: "No foreign hand shall rule Scotland." It is often described as a traditional Scottish patriotic motto, associated with Scottish independence sentiment — especially in reference to the Wars of Scottish Independence (13th–14th centuries).

THE BIG BAMBOOZLE II: IT WAS THE UNITED STATE OF AMERICA AND ITS GOVERNMENT THAT MOVED NOT THE LAWS OF THE USA NOR THE PEOPLE OF THE USA THAT MOVED

Ed Donegan fuses together Katherine Horton Stop007.org survey, his (my) own life story of attacks on me spanning more than 40 years, and my belief about the "Intelligence Community." The Cadre of dangerous corrupt mafia dons whole rule the world and the USA with dirty (secretive, quietly conducted) war crimes against populations.

A former senior official of the Federal Bureau of Investigation says "rogue" military intelligence and law enforcement units of the federal government oversee a nationwide network of community-based "gang stalking" (harassment, intimidation and domestic terrorism) directed at thousands of U.S. citizens who have been extra judicially targeted as "dissidents" or undesirables. "Based on my thirty years' experience and research, I have determined there are thousands of victims who have been targeted by an illegal U.S. government rogue criminal enterprise - military intelligence, probably, tied into CIA and FBI and so forth - that is active 24 hours a day throughout the United States," Gunderson stated in an October 2008 speech posted last fall on YouTube.

This second edition of the book includes an alteration in the title to it was the USA that moved. A corrupt JFK linked government continues its cover-up by covert aggression against many in the USA. Misconduct of government can include ethics, self-enrichment, favoritism, to Conspiracy Against Rights to harass people into other crimes often listed in the Organized Crime statutes such as break-ins, intimidation, witness assassination, obstruction of justice, money laundering Subersion of the USA and politically connected espionage weaponized of DHS and the military all the way into ethnic crimes, genetics crimes, illegal radio-logical attacks and poisonings, and beyond. Understand what (or rather who) our corrupt officials have to fear and the illegal systems used to "silence" whistle-blowers with propaganda techniques that include false-flags, staged events, and other slander and ongoing operations are now the norm for the USA and is shills. Called Community Based Agents recruits carry out staged events and abuse of Targets. Many Targeted Individuals such as myself. Tara Moore of Boston, and others have our neighborhoods taken over and adjoining apartments taken over from where attacks are conducted from.

https://archive.org/download/genoracketeering_202001/TheBigBamboozleII.epub

EDWARD DONEGAN READING THE STORY OF THE JFK TRIAL AND OUT OF COURT DEATHBED STATEMENTS

Add my on piezes of the puzzle in McMartin Preschool and JFK. Publication and excerpts of my books series on The Deep State and the CIA Special Relationship with Great Britain

"Probably the most interesting single item seized in the course of Shaw's arrest was his address book. It offered some insight into his proclivity for developing casual friendships at lofty levels of European aristocracy.

"It is true that such a listing could have represented a preoccupation with the past inasmuch as most of the world is no longer run by nobles.

"However, it is also true that the C.I.A. has a romantic infatuation with fading regimes and that Clay Shaw, with his polished Court of St. James manners, must have been precisely what the Agency needed for assignments involving foreign royalty-such as that in Italy in 1962. - Jim Garrison "On The Trail of the Assasins."

Edward Donegan Fletcher Prouty St John Hunt Expose Press https://targetedmanhattanprojectvictim.wordpress.com/nd the Press Kit is found at https://targetedmanhattanprojectvictim.wordpress.com/"

All Above Books By Edward Paul Donegan © All rights reserved 2023

THE STATE

Loyalty to Loyalty is Loyalty. Loyalty to Disloyalty is Disloyalty. Loyal People in Loyal Government is internally consistent. Disloyal People in Disloyal Government is also internally consistent.